EISENHOWER BEGINS PRESIDENCY CRUSADE; SENATOR NIXON CHOSEN AS RUNNING MATE

General To Conduct Fighting Campaign, Seeks Solid Backing

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pledged to a fighting campaign against the Truman administration, sought today to line up wholehearted Republican support as the party's 1952 presidential nominee.

Moving to wipe out bitterness which split the GOP in his successful battle against Sen. Robert A. Taft for the nomination, Eisenhower arranged a post-convention meeting today with available Republican members of Congress.

Eisenhower's first visitor today was Harold Stassen, arriving at breakfast time just as he had two mornings previously. Stassen, whose Minnesota delegation's vote put Eisenhower over the top at the convention Friday, had no com-

Stassen had held most of the Minnesota votes pledged to him as a nominee candidate, but at the end of the roll call they switched to Eisenhower. This gave the general enough for first-ballot nomination.

The general went before the final session of the convention last night and formally accepted the nomination voted him. He called for a Republican crusade aimed at sweeping out "an administration which has fastened on every one of us the wastefulness, the arrogance and corruption in high places . . ."

A record 1,330 sorties against Pyongyang and other targets Friday is part of a new "get tough" policy which began with the annihilation of key North Korean power installations last month. The old record of 1,283 sorties was set May 1.

The Air force called the Pyongyang strike "the largest 24-hour effort of the Korean conflict by Far East Air Forces on one target area."

It came as Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, arrived in Tokyo for conferences with Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, and Gen. Otto P. Weyland, Far East Air Force commander, who ordered the air action against the Reds.

Even before the devastating night raid, a Tass (Russia) dispatch from Pyongyang, broadcast by Moscow radio and heard in London, termed the 500-plane day attacks "barbaric on a peaceful town which has no military objectives."

Air Force spokesmen said, however, the targets were depots, factories and troop installations some of them spotted months ago on intelligence films and permitted to "ripen."

The Air Force said it lost only one plane—an F84 Thunderjet—over the target. It was hit by heavy flak.

U. S. Sabre jet and Australian Meteor pilots flying over for the daylight raid said they probably shot down one Red MiG15 jet and damaged two others of about 50 that rose from their Manchurian bases.

Aside from yesterday's raid, five other Allied planes were lost during the week, the Air Force said.

The U. S. Eighth Army reported ground action extremely light.

District Child Crushed Under Haywagon Bed

Four-year-old Becky Peppel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peppel of the Columbian New Waterford Rd. near Columbian, was killed Friday morning in an accident in her father's barn. Sheriff Howard Clark reported today.

The child was found crushed under a haywagon bed by her nine-year-old brother, Larry, shortly after her father had given her permission to play in the barn. She was rushed to a Columbian doctor where resuscitation failed to revive the girl. The physician pronounced her dead at 11 a.m. due to a broken neck.

Sheriff Clark said the child was killed when she apparently attempted to climb a propped-up haywagon bed and fell. He added that there were no marks on the body.

Becky Peppel was born July 19, 1949 at Salem. Her father is a shoveler operator with the R. and R. Mining Co., and her mother, the former Lois Dickey, is a graduate of Lisbon High school. The child attended the East Fairfield Methodist Church.

Besides, her parents, she is survived by two brothers, Larry and James Paul, at home; a sister, Linda, at home; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Peppel of Columbian and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dickey of Rogers; and the great grandparents, Mrs. Elizabeth Peppel of near Columbian and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Reash of Columbian.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Paul Peppel residence with Rev. Earl Brooks of the East Fairfield Methodist Church in charge. Burial will be in Columbian Cemetery.

The body will be returned to the family Sunday morning where friends may call Sunday afternoon and evening.

Top Air Blow Of War Levied By U.N. Planes

Communist Capital Left In Flames By 24-Hour Bombings

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—B29 Superfortresses took over at dusk Friday to make an around-the-clock bombing of Communist installations in the North Korean capital the greatest allied air blow of the war.

Sixty-five Superforts followed waves of fast United Nations fighter-bombers which left Pyongyang, the capital, and its environs in flames during daylight raids.

More than 1,400 tons of bombs were loosed on the rubbed area in a record 1,254 sorties (individual flights).

A record 1,330 sorties against Pyongyang and other targets Friday is part of a new "get tough" policy which began with the annihilation of key North Korean power installations last month. The old record of 1,283 sorties was set May 1.

Truman To Insist On Fair Deal Platform To Thwart GOP Tide

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was represented today as determined to insist on a fighting campaign on an all-out "Fair Deal" platform as the best hope of a Democratic victory over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in November.

He sought to stimulate support for an expanded public power program in a major address at the dedication of two big hydro-electric dams in Arkansas.

In that Southern "whistle stop" tour the President told the South that it has benefited more under the New and Fair Deals than under any other administration in history, and admonished it not to turn the clock back."

While the President says he will not attend the July 21 Democratic National Convention in Chicago until after his successor is nominated, he will not have to be present in person to exert his influence on the platform deliberations.

He undoubtedly will make his wishes known, through others on the scene, both members of Congress and administration officials in whom he has confidence.

Two Cited By Patrol After Traffic Mishap

Cars driven by Edward C. Zerki, 35, of Canonsburg, Pa., and Margaret Miskimins, 19, of RD 4, Salem, collided in a minor traffic accident which occurred at 10:30 p.m. Friday on Route 14, eight miles north of Salem, the State Highway Patrol reported today.

Zernicki was arrested on a charge of passing at an intersection and Miss Miskimins, on a charge of failing to give a signal for turning.

Sources close to the secret meetings say more than the iron ore situation is being discussed—that negotiators are down to brass tacks in their collective bargaining.

But, for the most part, it looked possible for the breach to heal sufficiently for a common front against the Democrats next November.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati who hasn't exactly been a favorite with some of the more conservative elements of the Ohio Republican Party in Ohio—sounded the first and most effective note for close harmony.

"... Following the admirable and heart warming example of my brother," said Charles Taft in a formal statement, "I give my hearty congratulations to General Eisenhower and pledge my vigorous support in Ohio of his candidacy. It is essential for the safety and progress of the United States to drive the Democrat administration out of Washington."

This can only be done by a united party in Ohio, and I, therefore, urge all Republicans and all those many Democrats and independents who agree in our objective to join in electing a Republican campaign group itself.

Steel Officials, Murray To Meet

Firms May Come Up With Another Offer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, plans another meeting with industry officials in an effort to end the 41-day nationwide steel strike.

There was speculation the industry may come up with a new offer but neither Murray nor company negotiators had any report of progress as they ended two days of secret conferences yesterday.

Among those participating were John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel Corp., Ben Moreell, chairman of the board of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., and Joseph Larkin, vice president of Bethlehem Steel Corp.

The negotiators met for 90 minutes yesterday, then adjourned to confer separately.

The meetings came soon after the industry said it would request the union help to get iron ore production moving again. About 23,000 iron ore miners who are members of the union quit in sympathy when Murray ordered his steelworkers to strike June 2. Steelworkers say unless iron ore can be shipped soon they will be forced to stock enough to keep mills going full pace next winter. Iron ore can't be shipped on the great lakes during the winter because of the freeze.

Sources close to the secret meetings say more than the iron ore situation is being discussed—that negotiators are down to brass tacks in their collective bargaining.

When the strike began Murray insisted the industry give his men a 26-cent an hour pay package boost recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board. He also insisted on a union shop compelling all steelworkers to join his union. The union shop issue was considered the chief stumbling block now.

The six-week strike now has idled close to 1,200,000 workers. In addition to the 600,000 idle steelworkers nearly 600,000 employees of allied industries have been laid off.

President Truman and most of the Democrats, the choice was something of a disappointment. Most of them felt Taft would have been easier to beat in November, although Taft did not share their feelings.

The Republican's choice of Eisenhower was almost certain to put additional Democratic pressure on Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois to head that party's ticket.

Stevenson restated his views yesterday after Eisenhower's nomination.

He had no comment on via TV screens as Eisenhower won his nomination and Nixon was chosen.

He is confident that the Democratic nominee will win in November.

Taft has 4 Years Left In Senate

Taft, whose chance for the presidency trickled through his fingers in an hour and 20 minute roll call, still has four years to serve in his present Senate term.

Eisenhower made it plain he felt Taft's campaign backing would be necessary to win a November victory.

Warren and Stassen also were asked personally to help out and they agreed. MacArthur, the convention keynote who got 10 votes, pointedly was ignored. He was not an active candidate.

President Truman and millions of other Americans looked on via TV screens as Eisenhower won his nomination and Nixon was chosen.

He is directly linked to the European military assistance program until he resigned in May as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

Republicans generally expect their nominee to blast at Democratic domestic policies. Eisenhower has put himself on record against "socialism," what he calls government extravagance, high taxes and government deficits.

The winning impetus in his battle with Taft for the nomination came from an attack on alleged efforts by Taft backers to "steal" delegates in Texas and Louisiana.

The general probably will row his boat during a work and rest period in Denver during the next two months, leaving for the mile high city today or tomorrow.

By choosing Eisenhower, Republicans may have gone a long way toward eliminating foreign policy as a major campaign issue.

First, however, Eisenhower must patch things up with the die-hard Taft backers. It may take months to wash out the bitterness engendered in the rowdy, brawling convention that ended yesterday.

Californian, Ike's Choice, Is Unopposed

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower set out today on a Republican "shining promise" crusade for the presidency.

At the side of the 62-year-old general of the Army—who won the party nomination by blasting down four rivals on a single ballot yesterday—marched 39-year-old Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California.

Hand-picked by Eisenhower and his advisers for No. 2 place on the ticket, Nixon dramatized the new GOP bid for support of the nation's younger people.

The Californian, a former lieutenant commander in the Navy, completed an Army-Navy team chosen by Republicans at their 25th national convention. Nixon was unopposed for the vice presidential nomination.

Eisenhower took only one thrill-packed ballot to dispose of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Gov. Earl Warren of California, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the presidential contest.

Friends said Summerfield, who helped supply some of the vital votes needed by Eisenhower for his sweeping victory yesterday, might feel he could not take on the post because of health reasons.

If Summerfield so decides, Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, an ardent Eisenhower backer, probably would be in line for the job.

It was reported to have given his approval for the selection of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as the party's new national chairman, replacing Guy G. Gabrielson of New Jersey.

Friends said Summerfield, who helped supply some of the vital votes needed by Eisenhower for his sweeping victory yesterday, might feel he could not take on the post because of health reasons.

"Much more, it is our aim to give to our country a program of progressive policies drawn from our finest Republican traditions; to unite us where we have been divided; to strengthen freedom wherever among any group it has been weakened; to build a sure foundation for sound prosperity for all here at home and for a just and sure peace in the world."

Precious Memories

A wandering Texan recalls scenes of his childhood

One Autumn night in 1923, at his home near Hamlin, Tex., song-writer John B. F. Wright fell to thinking of the days of his youth—days before the family circle was broken and there seemed not a care in the world. Wright was not an old man in 1923, but the Autumn of life was not far away. He was born in Tennessee in 1877, but moved with his parents to Groesbeck, Tex., when he was only 2 years old. And there, 40 miles east of Waco, he spent the happy days of his youth, attended singing school, fell in love and married. But in 1902 Wright took his young bride, left the old home and, as he puts it, "rambled over Texas for many years."

John Wright's mother was one of "the sweetest singers of her generation" and the song-writer's earliest memories are of his father and mother singing together the songs of their youth. It was this early environment that inspired John Wright to write songs of the church, songs now that number more than 300. He might have written more, but he never attempts either words or music without an inspiration. But when the mood strikes, "the words flow faster than I can get them down."

In 1909 word came to John Wright that his father died. This was the "gone home to glory" of his life. Five years later his mother had left 20 years before unfolded in the mind of John B. F. Wright and he was inspired to write his famous song. And, he recalls, when his thoughts turned to his own little son whom he buried the year before "I bathed my pillow in tears." Thus true to the line of the poem, it was actually in the stillness of midnight that J. B. F. Wright wrote:

Precious mem-ries, unseen angels,
Sent from somewhere to my soul;
How they linger, ever near me,
And the sacred past unfold.

Precious father, loving mother,
Fly across the lonely years,
And old home scenes of my childhood,
In fond memory appear.

In the stillness of the midnight,
Echoes from the past I hear;
Old time singing, gladness bringing
From that lovely land somewhere.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Learn To Understand People's Reactions

A young minister I know once took over a New England church. He found that a woman who lived right next door to the church thought she ran it and kept the key at her house. If the minister wanted to get in, he had to go to her for the key because it was the only one they had.

When he called on her the first time, she looked at him and asked, "Who are you?" Dr. Peale

"I'm the new minister," he said.

"Oh, no, you couldn't be," she exclaimed, and later made a point of telling all her friends that he didn't look as though he had sense enough to come in out of the rain.

Well, she continued to annoy him. She told him that no one would come to hear him preach. She criticized his sermons. She did everything she could to make him unhappy and insecure. Of course, the minister realized that her attitude indicated some deep inner unhappiness or frustration.

HE TOLD AN OLDER minister about his problem. "Son," the other man said, "you've got to learn to get along with people who annoy you because a lot of them are going to do it as long as you live. Also, you must analyze people to understand why they react in such a manner. If I were you, I would study that woman and learn all I could about her. Then I would use that knowledge to try to win her over to my side by helping her to be released from what is troubling her."

When he went around a few days later to get the key, this formidable woman was making cookies. "What smells so good?" he asked her.

"I don't know what you're smelling," was the answer. "Smells like cookies," he persisted. "May I have one?"

She gave him one and reluctantly offered a glass of milk. Then she pushed the plate of cookies within his reach.

He took another cookie and still another. "You know," he said, "I'm just twenty-two. I understand you lost a boy of that age."

"Yes," and her lips were thin. "God took him from me when he was only twenty-two."

"I'll bet he liked your cookies, didn't he?"

"I still make them just because he liked them," she said.

"I like them too," he told her. And they sat silently for a while.

Then she spoke. "No one has mentioned my son to me for years."

THAT STARTED off their friendship, I guess," the minister explained to me, "she sort of put me in her son's place. She used to get me into her kitchen, lecture me, advise me and then feed me. She helped me make of that congregation a harmonious and happy people, and I love her memory to this day."

There is always a place of entry into the heart of anyone who annoys you. When you row around an island looking for a place to land, you may not find it at first, but one is there if you keep looking for it.

All Over But November

For the fourth consecutive time, the choice of a Republican presidential candidate has been virtually dictated by one element of the party.

Gen. Eisenhower will need all his very great personal charm and his genius for bringing harmony out of dissension to rise above the circumstances which bestowed on him the "clear-cut call to political duty" that he began to listen for last January.

Republicans who thought Sen. Taft was entitled to a chance to lead the party in behalf of those who don't want to be identified with the Dewey-Stassen type of politics can neither forgive nor forget the manhandling they received in 1952 by their own party associated with the gall to talk about a Taft "steamroller."

This is not the time for phony protestations of enthusiasm for Dewey, who was in such ill repute with the Republican party that he had no official part in its convention.

It is not the time to pretend that Stassen and the others who have been more interested in stopping Taft than in standing up to be counted among the opposition to Trumanism are suddenly converted into GOP elephants with pink wings.

It is the time to get behind Dwight D. Eisenhower, the nominee, and to hope he may be able to use his genius to reconcile the divergent elements within the Republican party.

Of all the persons who might have been chosen for the stop-Taft role in the Republican convention, Gen. Eisenhower was the happiest choice that could have been made.

Gen. Eisenhower will be able to lead an enthusiastic campaign, provided he avoids the mistake of lending his ears to too many advisers.

It will be easy to follow him enthusiastically in a crusade to clean out Washington with a bulldozer of honesty and upright intentions.

But it will not be easy to run the bulldozer. That is the realization which should make all Republicans do everything in their power to get the crusade moving and to build up enough momentum by November to dig out entrenched greed, corruption and cynicism in Washington.

Republicans cannot do it alone.

They must have the votes which nominally belong to their party, plus some votes which have belonged to the New-Deal-Fair-Deal coalition, plus some votes which have belonged to no one at all.

Gen. Eisenhower has the job of proving that the two-party system still can bring about a change of administrations, despite the New-Deal-Fair-Deal discovery of the spend-elect formula.

That will be his first job—that long before any of the issues which have been talked about can be tackled.

Republicans in recent years have been noted for whooping up so much excitement in the process of naming a ticket they were bushed when the contest with the Democrats began. Gen. Eisenhower's job will be to bring the party into fighting trim before November.

It will be tough.

There is no use pretending the political apples will fall if all Republicans just stretch out comfortably under the tree and wait for the harvest.

That was going to be the magic formula the last time, and it failed.

It is one of the deeper ironies of public life that men should be nominated for high authority in a hury-hurry of politics. Gen. Eisenhower has seen nothing like it before; he does not profess to be a politician, though he will need to learn rapidly from now on to understand what the politicians who will surround him are doing.

He can take up his arduous duties as leader of the Republican campaign in the secure knowledge that his countrymen will like him better if he never learns to act like a politician.

The crusade to purify government and revive American morale is to restore common honesty in the handling of money and authority. It has nothing to do with politics.

Gen. Eisenhower, now that his politicians friends have demonstrated for him the uses of their black arts in a national convention, will do well to revert as rapidly as he can to what he was when he returned to the United States from his European assignment last May—a man of great public stature earned by great public deeds.

That is the kind of man a majority of Americans would like to put into the White House next November—the kind of man who has no counterpart in the Democratic party.

Propellers beating the air cause most of the noise from a plane—like a mosquito getting set for a one-point landing.

Great men build railroads—and probably gave credit to their early training.

Running expenses are twice as hard to keep up with when you are a fast stepper.

Staying young is a good habit, girls—and an old one, too.

Harmony In GOP

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Youth Takes Over, Sights Victory Next Fall

Harmony of a kind reigns in the Republican Party after the close of perhaps the most spectacular convention since 1912.

Tense and hard-fought from beginning to end, the convention, in selecting the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, represents a revolution in the Republican Party—the climax of a struggle between the "Old Guard" and the liberal segment of the party which has been going on for 40 years without decision.

The younger generation of progressive Republicans did here this week what the Bull Moose crusaders of Theodore Roosevelt's day couldn't do. They won a clear-cut victory for progressivism within the Republican Party and didn't compromise at any time on any basic issue.

Some bitterness and scars remain despite the outward appearance of concord. The truth is that a well-defined movement developed early Friday to nominate Senator Taft for the vice presidency, but the liberal wing would have none of it. They felt that to put him on the ticket would produce throughout the country a confused interpretation of what had happened in the convention and would indicate that the party had not made up its mind as to which brand of leadership or principles it wanted in the campaign.

MANY MEMBERS OF Congress pressed for the idea of selecting Taft for vice president, as a measure of unity inside the party, and it is known that General Eisenhower didn't turn down the suggestion but felt the whole matter of selecting a vice presidential nominee should be decided by his associates and particularly by the men who had borne the brunt of the preconvention battle.

As the convention delegates depart, they leave with more enthusiasm than this writer has observed in any Republican convention for years. The Republican party has made a definite bid for the support of the South by receding somewhat from the previously extreme position on the civil rights plank and by going "all out" for states rights, which is a bit novel for Republicans.

Anyway, the chances of carrying Texas, Virginia and Florida now are believed by the Eisenhower managers to be better than ever.

As to the South, much depends on what the Democrats do on civil rights. Can they recede, too, or will they go "all out" for the Truman interpretation and give the states rights groups a chance to succeed from the Democratic Party or quietly throw their strength to the Republican ticket?

Certainly the Republican played for the South this time, and they are hopeful of an unprecedented success of Dixie as well as in the North next November.

Be Of Good Cheer

By TRUMAN TWILL

Like everyone else, I have been reading everything published about the new ocean liner I helped to build for its sea-going operators with my taxes.

It's reassuring to learn from the copy for an advertisement that my employees on my new ship are going to be cheerful. If ever I scrape up enough chlorophyll-treated paper to go abroad without making a stink about it, my employees had better be cheerful, or I will have them strung up by their thumbs cheerfully.

Cheer is the least I should expect for the kind of money this dream-boat is costing me and you and you and you. As a matter of fact, it's the least I should expect for the kind of money it's costing all of us to keep any of the many beneficiaries of the U. S. Treasury in the style to which they are accustomed.

There are a lot of them.

Some wear disguises, but any sucker can see through set of dime-store whiskers. If they take money from the public treasury they are working for you. You have a right to demand that they be cheerful about it. If they don't like it on your payroll, let them go back where they came from.

Come the day when you finally are ready to go abroad on your ocean liner—you own several liners but naturally you will want to take your voyage on the newest one—the fellow at the ticket window should chuckle when he takes your money.

The fellow who punches your ticket, or whatever they do on ocean liners, should bust out laughing. This is a good joke on you—a good joke on everybody. Make yourself at home, Buster. You are as good as your money.

Everybody in the place should grin broadly and turn flip-flops to please you when you snap your fingers. It isn't as though you merely had sneezed up the sucker's share of the money to make this thing possible. You are going to pay for your luxury cruise at the same rate as any non-American. There is no discount for shareholders. You've a right to demand cheerfulness in lieu of cash.

Keep smiling as you trudge along after the laughing boy showing you to your cubbyhole down in the hold. Expect a hearty laugh from the captain as he orders you off his bridge—his and yours. Share the good humor with the fellow who snickers when you ask for a bottle of pop and a weenie on bun with mustard in the dining salon. The joke's on you.

This is a happy time for one and all. It is as uproarious, in fact, as your dealings with all your other employees—the police who chews at his side would completely refute any such impression.

For Nixon, as an aggressive member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, was the man who persisted when everybody else had dropped the case of Alger Hiss. It was Nixon who exposed and uncovered the evidence that ultimately led to the perjury trial which put Hiss behind the bars.

ANOTHER ARGUMENT was that picking Senator Nixon, a lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy in the South Pacific, would show the younger veterans of the country that they were not being forgotten.

The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket has aroused enthusiasm among the Warren and Stassen forces who were allied with the successful nominee throughout the convention. But the ticket, while outwardly sponsored by all factions, leaves a trail of disappointment among the Taft supporters. Many of them will go along and work hard in the campaign, but others will not take the defeat gracefully and will bulk.

If, as now expected, Arthur umvvermied of Michigan is made national chairman, he will certainly have his work cut out for him. He is an able, efficient organizer. His timely support at a psychological moment when he brought 32 of Michigan's votes to Eisenhower, was the turning point just before the first ballot began.

As the convention delegates depart, they leave with more enthusiasm than this writer has observed in any Republican convention for years. The Republican party has made a definite bid for the support of the South by receding somewhat from the previously extreme position on the civil rights plank and by going "all out" for states rights, which is a bit novel for Republicans.

As to the South, much depends on what the Democrats do on civil rights. Can they recede, too, or will they go "all out" for the Truman interpretation and give the states rights groups a chance to succeed from the Democratic Party or quietly throw their strength to the Republican ticket?

Certainly the Republican played for the South this time, and they are hopeful of an unprecedented success of Dixie as well as in the North next November.

Next it was argued that, because of the attacks recently from certain of the Taft groups, and they are hopeful of an unprecedented success of Dixie as well as in the North next November.

Yet, many people who could have seen it on the spot stayed away. Many more who wanted to go couldn't get in. The convention ran a full day over its schedule and no spectator admission cards were printed for Friday. People had been warned to keep their Thursday stubs.

The time of Eisenhower's appearance had been announced and he arrived promptly. As he entered the great hall, and a police escort formed and started down the center aisle, there was an ear-splitting burst of cheering.

Eisenhower was wearing a blue summer suit. His face was flushed a coral-pink. The peculiar incandescence which is a hallmark of the man was never more pronounced. He smiled and waved with quick, happy gestures.

On the podium, at last, as the roar swelled and rolled in echoing waves through the hall, he stood, blinking into the beams of white light. His wife stood beside him. They saluted the crowd, complied with the pleas of the photographers. Eisenhower held both arms high above his head, then dropped them and waited to speak.

In the galleries directly facing him, there was a wide, bald spot of empty seats. And there were others elsewhere in the balconies.

Eisenhower's acceptance speech was brief and grave. It was based on the theme that the coming campaign will be, for him and for the party, a crusade.

Those Empty Convention Seats

By RELMAN MORIN

CHICAGO 4P—There is a great stir of speculation in Chicago today about the yawning patches of empty seats in convention hall last night when Dwight Eisenhower delivered his acceptance speech.

Here was one of the great moments in American history.

A few hours earlier, Eisenhower had become the Republican nominee for the presidency. Ten years ago, few people outside the Army had ever heard of him. Ten months ago, few people could have said with certainty that he would even be available as a political candidate.

So this was the end of a long, rock-strewn road. Or at least a turning point, and a sharp one.

Yet, many people who could have seen it on the spot stayed away. Many more who wanted to go couldn't get in. The convention ran a full day over its schedule and no spectator admission cards were printed for Friday. People had been warned to keep their Thursday stubs.

The time of Eisenhower's appearance had been announced and he arrived promptly. As he entered the great hall, and a police escort formed and started down the center aisle, there was an ear-splitting burst of cheering.

Still No Steel

By WADE JONES

Three months ago President Truman thought the steel strike was so serious he seized the steel companies. The U. S. flag flew at mill gates, and workers went back to their jobs. Then the Supreme Court said the seizure was wrong, gave the mills back to their owners, and workers went out on strike again.

Today the rust of the idle steel mills was spreading far into the rest of the nation's economy, and the Office of Defense Mobilization has warned the strike had "wiped

Born July 1, the baby was discovered to be afflicted with a blood condition called hemolytic anemia. This condition, sometimes present in infants of parents whose blood streams are characterized by the described Rh factors, is fatal unless the infant's blood is replaced with Rh negative blood, hospital staff members explain.

Treating infants thus afflicted was formerly done by taking blood from one arm and injecting new blood in the other arm with hypodermic syringes.

Reverend George W. Ramsey Ordained At New Waterford

Few ordinations of young ministers have the family significance of that of Rev. George W. Ramsey, pastor of the New Waterford and Clarkson Presbyterian churches, who was ordained in a service Friday evening in the New Waterford church.

The church was filled to capacity to witness the impressive ceremony participated in by the new pastor, his father, Dr. Frank C. Ramsey, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church in Tarentum, Pa., and his brother, Rev. Frank R. Ramsey, who has just received his discharge as chaplain of the 110th Regt., 28th Div., U.S. Army.

Ninth Inning Homers Give Indians 8-7 Victory Over A's

Rosen, Doby Hit Round Trippers

Reiser Sold; Tribe Weak In Outfield

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Halfway through their 1952 pennant pursuit, the Cleveland Indians today had a much dimmer outlook than back in April before the first ball was tossed.

Last night's 8-7 victory here evened the series and gained the Tribe a game on second-place Chicago and pace-setting New York.

But as the Indians head into the crucial part of their schedule, these are things that must keep Manager Al Lopez awake nights:

1. New York's Yankees lead Cleveland by 3½ games, and their 46-30 record is exactly what it was a year ago when they won 98 to cop the pennant. Cleveland is a full game behind its 1951 pace and would have to win seven of 19 from here out to total 98 victories.

2. Shortstop Ray Boone, who bats nearly 100 above that of his replacement, Merrill Combs, won't rejoin the club in the East and will miss next week's five big games in Yankee Stadium. Boone hasn't played since July 1 because of torn knee ligaments.

3. The club is short of outfielders and weak in right field where rookies Dave Pope and Jim Fridley have divided work since Luke Easter went to Indianapolis and Harry Simpson moved to first base.

Thursday night Fridley misplayed three hits in his direction and Lopez benched him for Pope. Last night Pope muffed a third-inning fly with the bases full and two out, and the Athletics went onto score the last four of seven runs they got in that one inning.

The sale of Pete Reiser to Indianapolis yesterday left the Indians with only one experienced outfield replacement—Barney McCosky, who can't play regularly because of a chronic back ailment.

Reiser had been used chiefly as a pinch hitter, and he has been plagued by a bad shoulder and stomach trouble.

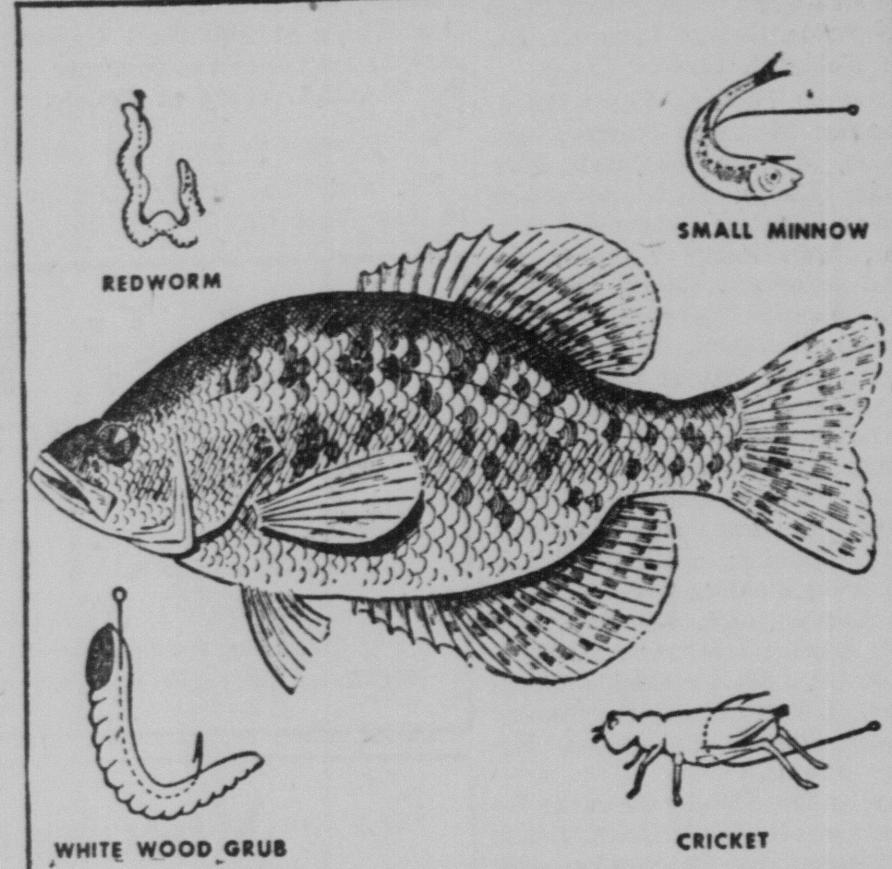

Lopez says: "We hope to get another outfielder somewhere soon," but the trade deadline is past and Pope was tagged as the best farm club prospect available. That seems to add up to Luke Easter's return from the minor's and Simpson's restoration to right field.

All Rosen led off the ninth last night with a homer onto the left field roof to tie the score at 7-7. Larry Doby, next up, hit a 420-foot, inside-the-park homer over center fielder Dave Philley's head for the winning run. Both were off Carl Scheib, who replaced starter Harry Byrd in the first inning.

Rosen's was his 16th and tied him for the league lead, and Doby's was his 14th.

Ohio Fishing Tips--Crappie

OHIO FISHERMEN ARE REPORTING some record sized crappie catches this summer. Not only are these popular fish running big but there are lots of them.

Inland lakes throughout the state are fine crappie fishing waters. In the Muskingum lakes, Lake St. Marys, Indian Lake, Buckeye Lake, Pymatuning Reservoir and many of the smaller lakes, the cane pole fisherman and the fly fisherman enjoy the sport of fishing for their fellow. No matter where the Ohio fisherman lives, he is within easy driving distance to a good crappie or calico bass fishing spot.

Here are shown some of the most popular baits and how to hook them. Experts say that, contrary to what you might expect, there is no need to hide the point of the hook to fool a fish.

Bill Buckman Hurls No-Hit Contest

Bill Buckman hurled Heddleton's Pharmacy to a 7-0 victory last night in a Class B league tilt at Centennial Park as he set Butler Grange down with no hits in the six-inning affair.

Buckman faced just 22 batters, striking out 14 of them. His teammates tallied single markers in the first, fifth and sixth innings while getting four in the third frame. They totaled 12 hits during the game.

The other game of the evening saw Fifes win a 22-7 decision in five innings from Baptists. The winners started out with 13 runs in the second inning, eight in the third frame and a single tally in the fourth inning. The Baptists scored four in the third inning and three in the fourth frame.

SIGNED BY TRIBE

CINCINNATI (AP) — Twenty-year-old Erv Burkhardt of Cincinnati was signed by the Cleveland Indians yesterday. The 180-pounder who is six feet, one inch tall, presently is playing with Deer Park of the Tri-State amateur league. Burkhardt, a former Cincinnati Western Hill High School baseball star, will report to the Indians' tryout camp next spring.

Little LEAGUERS

The Sanitary and Mullins captured games in Little League competition last night as they gained victories over Fishers and Sekelys, respectively.

Sanitary downed the Fisher outfit in a tight, 7-6 contest while Mullins routed Sekelys, 10-1.

Sanitary 7-6 Victory

Scoring a run in the last of the sixth inning, the National Sanitary nine grabbed a tight game from Fisher's News Agency in a game at Centennial Park last night.

The score was knotted at 6-all as the teams went into the last inning. The Agency nine were held scoreless but the Sanitary forced a run across in the bottom half of the inning and walked away with the game. Sanitary had banged out nine hits and Fisher's had collected eight bingles.

Adams led the winners with three doubles at the plate while Criss rapped out three hits for the losers.

Dickson beat Maglie, 6-2, yesterday, following Thursday's 14-5. In his 14th, he led the Indians to victory in the second game.

The Giants have lost six of their last eight starts and have fallen 5½ games behind the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers.

Most of the blame has been directed at the failure of Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie to match their victory pace of a year ago but actually light-hitting and poor fielding has been chiefly responsible for the Giants' latest woes.

The Giants, as a unit, have hit a miserly .214 during the past eight games. Individual figures during the same span show Bob Thomson at .229, Dave Williams at .215, Al Dark at .214 and Whitey Lockman at .203.

New York expected to shake its stump at the expense of Pittsburgh's tail-end pirates but instead the usually docile Pirates have won two straight.

Murry Dickson beat Maglie, 6-2, yesterday, following Thursday's 14-5. In his 14th, he led the Indians to victory in the second game.

The Democratic Club led the loop prior to last night's game while North Georgetown was in third place but the contests changed the standings into a tie, each team with a 6-2 record. Idle Homeworth, formerly in second place also moved into the thick of the battle without playing.

Meanwhile, the Amvets captured

Giants Falling Rapidly, Lose 6-2 Decision To Pittsburgh

Judging by the brand of ball off Carl Scheib enabled the Indians to beat the Athletics.

Rookie Dick Brodowski breezed to his third victory in the opener at Boston. The Red Sox collected 15 hits, Billy Goodman, who drove home three runs in the opener, and Del Wilber, led the Red Sox to victory in the second game.

Visiting pros competing in the $15,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament over the course are proving again that they play no ordinary game.

At the end of two days of firing, 47 pros and two amateurs boasted 36-hole totals that were under par.

Two players — Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Al Bessell, Escondido, Calif., shot 64s on opening day. On the second day, five players shot 66s.

Heading the field as the 77 low scorers teed off for today's third 18-hole round is Ransom. He counted a 66 yesterday for a 36-hole total of 130-14 under par. Second with 66-66-132 is Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and third is Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., with 65-68-133.

Three-Way Deadlock In Girls League

A loss last night in the Girls League to the Democratic Club and a win to North Georgetown in games played at Kelley Park forced a three-way deadlock for first place in the Girls League which also involves Homeworth.

The Democratic Club led the loop prior to last night's game while North Georgetown was in third place but the contests changed the standings into a tie, each team with a 6-2 record. Idle Homeworth, formerly in second place also moved into the thick of the battle without playing.

Roving Reports By HAL BOYLE

Editor's note: Wilbur Peeble, America's most average citizen, a victim of acute political exhaustion, wrote his wife the following summary of the Republican National Convention from a hospital bed:

By HAL BOYLE

CHICAGO (P)—Well, Trellis Mae, General Eisenhower has survived his nomination okay—but I collapsed.

But I am proud to say you are married to man who shook the hand that may put a fresh key in the White House door.

As Ike left the platform I grabbed his hand and wished him well, and he assured me he would do his best by the country. Then two cops and three ushers grabbed me and said:

"How did you get in here anyway? You're no delegate."

As they were leading me out, I suddenly blacked out. I guess the strain of observing democracy at work here the last week was just too much for me, honey. When I woke up I was in a hospital ward.

An interne just came by and said he was going to write up my case in the medical journals.

"We've never had one just like it," he said. "We dredged your stomach and found the runs of 75 hot dog sandwiches, a copy of the Republican platform and a partially digested Taft-for-President button."

In the bed next to me is another unusual patient—a fellow the interne said was suffering from acute MacArthur frustration. He was a delegate here, and he is still delirious. Every few moments he rears up and shouts:

"Penetrate the iron curtain! Ready, boys? One, two, three—all together now—let's penetrate the iron curtain!"

Then he falls back and starts humming. "On Wisconsin!"

They have called in a psychiatrist to treat him, and the psychiatrist is trying to cure him through diversion—by having a pretty nurse read him chapters in the life of Stonewall Jackson.

The doctor says that there is really nothing wrong with me but "conventionitis gastritis," complicated by a mild neurosis induced by my attempt to understand the Republican program for 1952.

"You're lucky," he said. "These conventions upset people. Last year we had a furniture convention, and one fellow was admitted with the delusion he was an overstuffed chair. He kept insisting 'for days that we get him upholstered.'

Looking back at the convention, Trellis Mae, I guess the thing I learned most from it was a new respect for politicians. They really must have stamina as well as character to go through the ordeal of a national convention.

Schools will close for the County Fair Sept. 12, and on Sept. 24 schools will be closed for teachers to attend the Northeastern Ohio Teachers Association meeting at Cleveland. Schools will be dismissed for Armistice Day, Nov. 11, and Thanksgiving vacation will begin November 27 and resume on December 1.

Christmas vacation will begin December 23 and school will resume January 5. Easter vacation will begin April 3 and continue through Monday, April 6. Baccalaureate services are scheduled for May 17 with Commencement on May 22. Schools will close Tuesday, May 26.

sands. From now on—win or lose in November—they will have a goldfish life.

I thought there was a little sadness in his countenance when his famous grin relaxed, as if he realized that he now is really a kind of prisoner of the people he is campaigning to serve. There will be little privacy from this day in the life of Ike and Mamie.

Somehow, Trellis Mae, just seeing the two of them sitting there alone together made me realize how nice a life we have ourselves, how wonderful it is to be unknown and unnoticed, to live unnoticed in the human herd with the one you love. Doesn't a blade of anonymous grass have as much fun as the North Star that people steer by?

Well, honey, anyway right now I feel as lonesome as a Stassen button.

Your homesick husband

WILBUR.

P. S. Please send me money to pay my hospital bill. I am tired of politics and want to come home.

Eastvold Shines At Convention

Parson's Son Emerges Into Party Limelight

CHICAGO (AP) — Out of each national political convention there usually emerges at least one fresh new personality. The Republican convention just ended was no exception.

The people's choice for 1952 — other than the candidates — seems to be a tall, skinny young lawyer from Tacoma, Wash., named Donald W. Eastvold, a parson's son.

A political unknown except to the home folks, Eastvold at the age of 32 stepped into the national limelight this week as one of the promising young men around Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP nominee.

Television screens gave a coast-to-coast audience a close-up view of the dark, serious young man who successfully led the bitter convention floor fight to seat the contested Eisenhower delegation from Georgia.

As a result, hundreds of telegrams have poured in on Eastvold from people who seemed to like what they saw.

It caught Eastvold by complete surprise. "I'm simply amazed," he said.

The reaction has caused veteran politicos to give this young lawyer out of the Pacific Northwest a second look.

Eisenhower strategists, however, already had tabbed him as a tough man in a convention scrap. They picked him early to battle for the delegates in the Convention Credentials Committee after watching him stage a similar fight earlier at the Washington State GOP convention. They chose him again for the big floor fight.

Right now Eastvold's ambition is to be attorney general of his state, a job he is seeking in the November elections.

He is now in the Washington State Senate, to which he was elected two years ago — his first political job.

Brazil Plane With 31 Aboard Falls Into Sea

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A Brazilian government airplane carrying 31 persons crashed in the sea about 37 miles southwest of Salvador City in Northeastern Brazil, the Brazilian Air Force announced last night.

The announcement gave no indication of the number of casualties but an airplane pilot who flew over the scene of yesterday's crash said he spotted several survivors trying to reach the beach.

Latest clear-vision mirror for the bathroom cabinet is electrically heated just enough to keep it free from moisture. The heating element is covered with a layer of conductive chemical rubber which has high resistance to deterioration from heat. Electric current is turned on or off at will.

RCAF officers here said the plane apparently made a forced landing.

Woman Who Wed Priest Gives Birth To Son

LONDON (AP) — A son has been born to Mrs. Claire Young Negrini, the 22-year-old American girl for whose love a Roman Catholic priest renounced his vows.

Luciano Negrini, 42, an Italian, gave up his ministry and Claire surrendered her American citizenship to marry after a turbulent romance in Italy last year.

Their child was born at King's College Hospital in London on June 20, it was learned today.

"We have called him Italo," said Mrs. Negrini, who came to England with her husband on April 17.

They are living obscurely in London while Negrini looks for work.

Elect 2 GOP Veterans

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago (AP) — The Republican National Convention Friday night re-elected two veteran Ohio GOP leaders to its national committee.

They are Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester and Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown of Dayton. The Ohio delegation recommended their re-appointment.

The common daisy is a wild variety of chrysanthemum, and although it grows over most of temperate America, is an import from southeast Europe and Asia.

One Killed, 3 Hurt In Crash Of B-17

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — A U.S. Air Force B-17 search plane crashed in the rugged wilds 35 miles northeast of Snag, near the Yukon-Alaska border Friday night, killing one of its eight-man crew.

Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters here said today that a paramedic rescue squad had been dropped at the crash scene to aid the survivors.

(The Civil Aeronautics Administration office at Anchorage, Alaska, said one airman was killed and three of the seven survivors were suffering from second and third degree burns. The CA said it was expected that the survivors would be flown out today).

The B-17 was on a flight from Elmendorf Air Force Base, Anchorage, to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, when it crashed. Whitehorse is about 1,000 miles north of Edmonton. The wrecked plane was sighted by another plane which was sent out to search for it when it failed to arrive at Whitehorse.

The wrecked bomber was assigned to the U. S. 10th Rescue Unit at Elmendorf. It had been due at Whitehorse at 6 p. m. (MST) (8 p. m. EST) on a search flight for a Canadian Mitchell bomber which disappeared June 30 with four men aboard.

RCAF officers here said the plane apparently made a forced landing.

The Eisenhower victory was announced during a cocktail party in the officers' lounge at Western Defense Command headquarters.

The California delegation was pledged to Warren because he was the winner of that state's primary.
